

Lucy

“This is a very special year for me so I asked to be picked for this question. Without the help of my human friends here, I would not even be alive right now. People believed in me. They trusted me with the decision that I still wanted to live. I had a disease that caused my face to get huge. They called it a mass. I didn’t care at first, but then I started getting bad headaches. I haven’t always been easy on people. But even though I can be a little opinionated, they still treated me like a queen and listened to what my feelings were. I underwent a lot of treatments and vet visits. But the mass went away and you would never even know that it was once there. I feel great. I look great. And I know that I am one of the luckiest cats in the world. I am grateful to everyone who pulled together to help me get my treatment. And I want you all to know how grateful I am that you care so much. I get to appreciate every breath I take for the rest of my life.”
