

Piper

“I love to answer this question every year. I so look forward to this! You see, people are always astonished when they meet me. I was born without eyes and have never once seen the world the way most of you do. Yet, my world is not dark at all. I am able to sense so many things. I just see them in a way that is unique to me. But I can explore the world in all its wonder and feel that I have everything I possibly could need. I am grateful to feel the sun. I love to hear the rain on summer nights. Nothing is impossible for me to do. I climb to the highest tops of cat trees and run around the room at great speed. I catch toys. I chase balls. Nothing ever stops me from being me. Sometimes those of you with your eyesight seem to fail to see the most important things in your life. I, on the other hand, get to just be one with it all. I am the luckiest cat alive.”
